Dem Deutschen Auswanderer

Was seh ich dort? Sind es nicht ganze Scharen von Deutschen, die die suesse Heimat fliehn, die nach Amerika hinueberziehn,
mit Weib und Kind, durch Muehen und Gefahren?

O kehret um! Ihr habt noch nicht erfahren, wie heiss und tief die Heimwehschmerzen gluehn:
ach, nirgend ist so schoen des Waldes Gruen als wo wir spielten in den Kinderjahren!

Doch, truegt nicht euer stolzes Angesicht,
so suchet ihr das Land, wo ihr den Samen der Freiheit seht gedeihn? Ich irre nicht:
auf eurer Stirne seh ich ihren Namen, - ihr flieht die Nacht, ihr sucht das goldne Licht:
so fuehre euch der Gott der Freiheit! Amen.

- - - - - - -

To the German Emigrant

What do I see? Bands and bands of Germans fleeing their sweet homeland -
Leaving for America with wife and child, not minding toil and trouble?

Oh turn around! You have not yet experienced the pain of homesickness:
Nowhere else the forest grows so green,
where we played in our early years!

And yet I see on your proud faces determination to seek out the land where freedom's seed is growing!
I am not mistaken:
upon your forehead I see that country's name -
You escape the night, seek out the golden light:
Let the God of freedom guide you! Amen.

Theodor Hilgard, 1790 - 1873

A well-known judge from Zweibruecken who in 1835 relinquished his post and emigrated to America for the sake of freedom.

PREFACE

The following text represents a translation from the Latin of all vital record material from the earliest existing parish registers for St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Johnsburg, Illinois. The Baptismal, Marriage and Death registers which are the source material for this book cover the period 1852 through October 1868.

The translation of these records was undertaken in the fall of 1981 as a project of the McHenry County Illinois Genealogical Society. Every effort has been made to render as faithful a translation as possible. The misspellings and omissions which occur throughout the records are due to inconsistencies of the recording priests. In many cases a name is spelled two or more different ways in the same entry. Spellings of non-German names are particularly unconventional as these were often spelled phonetically by the priest. In some cases the translators have suggested a more correct version of a name by placing it in parentheses after the questionable spelling. All material in parentheses is that of the translators. Illegible words, letters, and numbers have been underlined; blank lines have been used to indicate omissions.

Each of the seven recording priests for these early records had his own way of expressing an event. Some were very brief; others added important notations about the people -- where they were from, family relationships among persons named in an event, etc. All wrote in a version of German script using goose quill pens. Their Latin was at times highly unorthodox, often incorporating a German word order.

The place name Rhenana Borussia which appears frequently in the records has been explained by John Blocker of Hazel Crest, Illinois, as follows: The expression means, in English, Rhenish Prussia. Borussia is the ancient Latin-Germanic term for Prussia. Rhenana refers to the western or Rhenish portion of Prussia, formerly knowr as the Rhineland and ruled by Prussia after 1815.

The publishers of this material welcome all comments and corrections. In addition, genealogical researchers of early St. John's parish families are encouraged to provide information on verifiable errors of the priest in the recording of names and dates. MCIGS hopes to serve as a clearing house for documented information of this type.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The McHenry County Illinois Genealogical Society would like to extend a very special thank you to the following people who have made this publication possible:

...to the Reverend Leo Bartel and the staff of St. John's, especially Joan Walcznski and Deacon Jerome Tobin, for their help and cooperation in making these records available;

...to Gisela Ohlrich and Phyllis Bauer for their painstaking translation of the records;

...to Patricia Kuscevich, Mary Riter, and Judy Robel for their many hours of typing and proofreading;

...to John Heidler who using his computer indexed this material;

...to Robert Weber for the front cover design.

To you all, we say THANK YOU and we do appreciate your work and your time.

INTRODUCTION

The parish of St. John the Baptist, Johnsburg, Illinois, was organized in 1841 by a small group of newly-arrived German immigrants: Nicolaus Frett, Nicolaus Adams, Jacob Schmitt, and Johann Baptist Müller. The headstone of Nicolaus Frett, one of the first persons to be buried in St. John's Cemetery, gives their exact date of arrival as August 2, 1841. They were joined the following year by other immigrants from the same area of Germany -- the Eifel region of the Rhineland.

The first priest to come upon what was then called "Miller's Settlement" was the Rev. Fr. Fisher who had lost his way returning from Wisconsin and was brought to the settlement by friendly Indians. From 1842 until 1852 the parishioners of St. John's were served by visiting priests sent from the diocesan headquarters at Vincennes, Indiana, to care for the sacramental needs of Catholics in northern Illinois and Wisconsin. With the appointment of Rev. T. B. U. Jacomet in 1852, St. John's acquired its first resident pastor and the official recordkeeping of the church was begun.

It is evident from the Baptismal and Marriage records that settlers from other communities without the services of a parish priest came to St. John's for these sacraments. Names common to the "Irish Prairie" are often seen. Also present are names from the German settlement at Fremont Center and the settlements in Grant and Wauconda Townships in western Lake County.

It is interesting to see the evolution of names from the original German spellings to their anglicized versions -- Müller becoming Miller, Johann becoming John, etc. Also of interest is the sudden appearance of a surname as a family was added to the community and, conversely, the disappearance from the records of a family name. One wonders what became of these families. Did they move on to the West, taking advantage of their new-found freedom of movement, or were there perhaps no male heirs to carry on the line?

In the Baptismal records one can see a definite pattern in the naming of children. Male children were often named after their godfathers and female children after their godmothers. Godparents were sometimes chosen according to a pattern as well. The first son often had as his godfather one of his grandfathers, the second son the oldest brother of his father or mother, etc. The same was true for godparents of daughters with grandmothers and aunts serving as godmothers. As a result, Johnsburg came to have many persons with the same name, giving rise to a system of nicknames such as "Esh Johann" and "Klaus Matthias".

One cannot help but be touched by the long lists of infants and children in the Death records, particularly when epidemics took more than one child from a family, often within days or hours of each other. Living conditions for these early settlers were indeed difficult but we must stop to consider what was being left behind in Prussia. Nicolaus Frett's letter to friends and relatives still living in the Eifel region gives us an indication of that life. The following is a translation of his letter, the original of which is now preserved in the State Archives at Koblenz, West Germany.

> We left our wives and children in the city of Chicago and we three (N. Frett, N. Adams and J. Schmitt) went out into the country to look for an opportunity. We found it 30 English miles from Chicago near the village of McHenry where there is an English free school and a house of correction. The village is only three English miles distant from us. There I bought a farm of 160 acres which according to the German measure makes 200 morgen, at $2.50 per acre, in German money 6 marks. The land lies in a good situation and also a beautiful neighborhood.

Also we have very fine meadowland upon which the grass is so high it reaches above my head. This will perhaps seem unbelievable to you but it is true. I would not have believed it myself had I not seen it. The forest is composed of many trees and hazel bushes like none such as are found in Germany and they grow in great masses. Also in the woods the wild lemons (plums) grow in abundance. When we bought the land we hardly knew what to say as we glimpsed the splendid fruit and grass.

Nicolaus Adams from Hirten also has as much land as we. Jacob Schmitt of Münck has 60 acres. We took ours all together in one piece. We also bought two oxen that are as heavy as the largest one to be found in Germany; also a double span wagon and a cook machine which is very artfully constructed. One can cook upon four fires at once and at the same time have an oven for baking.

We also bought two cows and a plow besides household gear that one needs on a farm. The oxen cost 40 dollars, the wagon 33 dollars, the stove 22 dollars with the utensils included, the plow 7 dollars, and the two cows 24 dollars. When we get things somewhat arranged we can keep a hundred head of stock on our own place.

Here it is not like in Germany that one must support the cattle with his labor; here the cattle support themselves. They run out day and morning by themselves. Feed is absolutely free. One can make as much hay as he wants and where he wishes without paying for it. Here one knows nothing about taxes. One does not need to worry about beggars as they do in Germany. Here a man works for himself. Here one is equal to the other. Here no one takes off his hat to another. We no longer long for Germany. Every day we thank the dear Lord that he has brought us so to speak out of slavery into paradise. This also I wish from my heart for my dear friends, sisters and brothers, who continue to live in Germany as if under lions and dragons, fearing every moment to be devoured by them.

Costuming in America is similar to that of the best people in Germany. It is particularly handsome in the case of men. One cannot distinguish the farmer from the gentleman; they all stand on the same plane. If a woman should cross the street without a hat she would be laughed at. In New York I bought my wife and daughter Maria a new mantle of American cut. Board in America is also cheap. The common man lives better here than the highest in Germany.

One cannot describe how good it is in America and the many remarkable things to be found here. If one should write about them they would sound too unbelievable.

Who and what were these "lions and dragons" they feared every moment to be devoured by? Through the years it has been assumed that religious persecution was the primary reason behind the emigration from Prussia. However, Dr. Hans Egon Freund of Munich, West Germany, a genealogical researcher of the Freund family, has provided additional information on the historical background of the emigrants and their reasons for emigrating. The following is a paraphrased excerpt from a letter from Dr. Freund.

I have to state a correction as far as the early history of the settlers is concerned. The Eifel emigration by no means was started due to religious persecution. Social reasons such as extreme poverty were responsible.

When French revolutionary armies conquered the Rhineland in 1794-95 the portion of land to the west of the Rhine River became a part of France. It remained French until 1815 when Napoleon was defeated at the Battle of Waterloo. In the treaties of the Vienna Congress it was decreed that the area to the west of the Rhine would be given to the Kingdom of Prussia. In this area were three separate governing bodies, Trier, Kòblenz and Cologne, under the region name of Upper Province, Rhineland, Prussia.

These new provinces were treated badly under Prussian rule. Under the French the residents of Trier had lived rather well, the ruler of Trier watching closely to see that the rural population was not taken advantage of. But under Prussian rule this changed. Heavy taxes were levied on the peasants of the Eifel region. The Prussian government showed absolutely no mercy or concern for the population which grew poorer and poorer after 1815. Around 1840 it became critical. The yields from the harvests had steadily diminished and the people were no longer able to live off the land.

This was the start of the emigration to the new land. There was never a religious persecution towards our Eifel people. Even under the ruling Prussians who had command from 1815 on, there was no persecution of Catholics. The emigration flow to the United States and to Johnsburg in particular which began in 1842 was due solely to the crushing of the populace by the Prussian government of the time.

The sorrows and successes experienced by these first settlers of the German Prairie are reflected in the early records of their church, records which represent a compilation of the cycles of many lives. It is to the spirit which inspired the faith and perseverance of these early settlers that we dedicate this book of records.

INDEX

To facilitate use of the index variant spellings of the same surname have been grouped together under the most commonly used form. These groupings should not be considered as all-inclusive and the user is urged to consider every possible spelling when searching for a particular name. Special care should be taken when checking for non-German names, often spelled phonetically by the recording priest. Variant spellings of Irish surnames are particularly far afield, with the prefixes "O" and "Mc" often omitted or occasionally applied in error.

Umlauts have been spelled out throughout the index, i.e., Ü=UE, Ä=AE, Ö=OE.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The McHenry County Illinois Genealogical Society would like to extend a very special thank you to the following people who have made this publication possible:

... to the Reverend Leo Bartel and the staff of St. John's, especially Joan Walczynski and Deacon Jerome Tobin, for their help and cooperation in making these records available;

... to Gisela Ohlrich and Phyllis Bauer for their painstaking transcription of the records;

... to Patricia Kuscevich, Phyllis Bauer, and Judy Robel for their many hours of typing and proofreading;

... to John Heidler who using his computer indexed this material;

... to Robert Weber for the front cover design.

To you all, we say THANK YOU and we do appreciate your work and your time.

Roberta Smith, President

McHenry County Illinois
Genealogical Society

PREFACE

St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Johnsburg, Illinois, was organized in 1841 by a group of immigrants from the Eifel region of Germany. The transcription of the parish records for St. John the Baptist was begun in the fall of 1981 as a project of the McHenry County Illinois Genealogical Society. In 1982 the society published the earliest extant records for the church covering the period 1852 through 1868. This volume is a continuation of that project and contains all vital record material from the parish registers for the years 1869 through 1882.

Every effort has been made to provide an accurate transcription of the original and the omissions and misspellings of the recording priests have been reproduced as found. In some instances the transcribers have suggested a more correct version of a name by placing it in parentheses after the questionable spelling. All such material in parentheses is that of the transcribers and does not appear in the original. Illegible words, letters and numbers have been underlined. Omissions in the original have been indicated by blank lines.

The publishers of this material welcome all comments and corrections. Genealogical researchers of early St. John's parish families are encouraged to provide information on verifiable errors of the priest in the recording of names and dates. MCIGS hopes to serve as a clearing house for documented information of this type.

PREFACE

The parish of St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Johnsburg, Illinois, was organized in 1841 by four German immigrants: Nicolaus Frett, Nicolaus Adams, Jacob Schmitt, and Johann Baptist Muller. The headstone of Nicolaus Frett, one of the first persons to be buried in St. John's Cemetery, gives their exact date of arrival as August 2, 1841. They were joined the following year by other immigrants from the same area of Germany—the Eifel region of the Rhineland.

From 1842 until 1852 the parishioners of St. John's were served by visiting priests who were sent from the diocesan headquarters at Vincennes, Indiana, to care for the sacramental needs of Catholics in northern Illinois and Wisconsin. In 1852 St. John's acquired its first resident pastor and the official recordkeeping of the church was begun.

With the wave of German immigration to the Johnsburg area in the second half of the nineteenth century, the parish grew rapidly. By 1885, when the first history of McHenry County was written, the church membership had grown to 275 families.

The transcription of early parish records for St. John's began in 1981 as a project of the McHenry County Illinois Genealogical Society. In 1982 the society published the earliest extant records for the church covering the period 1852 through 1868. Records for the years 1869 through 1882 were published by the society in 1984. This book, the final volume in the series, includes all available records for 1883 through 1909.

There are no extant death records for the years 1883 through 1909, with the exception of a few deaths recorded at the beginning of 1883 and the end of 1909. One can assume that deaths occurring during these years were indeed recorded. However, when or how these records were lost is not known.

Some of the original baptismal records contain marriage information added later by the priest. Only those notations on marriages taking place outside the McHenry area have been included in this section. Notations of marriage–found within the baptismal records–for St. Peter's in Spring Grove and St. Mary's and St. Patrick's in McHenry have not been included.

Every effort has been made to produce an accurate transcription of the original record. Many of the recording priests used somewhat unorthodox Latin making translation difficult and the original handwriting is difficult to read. Illegible words, letters and numbers have been underlined. Blank lines have been used to indicate omissions by the recording priest. All information in parentheses is that of the transcribers.

The McHenry County Illinois Genealogical Society welcomes comments and corrections to this material. Genealogical researchers of early St. John's families are encouraged to provide information on verifiable errors.
